

her for two years and paid her $150 monthly for the last four months.

Sent Her Away.

Because, he says, who was "psychopathic" and "abnormally determined" to have him divorce his wife and marry her, he arranged to have her go out of town, and several weeks ago.

While Smith, for the last two years, had explained to his wife, Mrs. V. D. Smith, Chicago's wife, that his interest in the girl was intellectual and analytical, Wanda was telling a story of emotions.

Mrs. Smith, she told officials last night, thinks the Polish girl was in Palos Park all night Wednesday, so perfectly had she planned the details of the shooting.

But the neighbors tell it differently. It was about 8:30 yesterday morning, they recall, that a dilapidated Cadillac car, with the curtains fastened tightly, jogged down the road to the postoffice. Mrs. Harriet Stofsky, the 74-year-old mother of Mrs. Ada Schmidt, the postmistress, was putting out her flowers in the garden.

The car stopped and a tall, "curious looking" man with a long black coat and cap, walked over, bent down low, and whispered, "Do you know where the Y. K. Smith lives?"

The old lady indicated with her rake. The man jumped into the car and drove in that direction. Casually Mrs. Stofsky hobbled back to the postoffice and told her daughter of the episode.

Rushes to Cottage.

"There's company come to your house," Mrs. Schmidt mentioned to Manning, who loitered near the mail window.

In a flash, she recalls, the 68-year-old man rushed out of the office and across lots to the five-room cottage where he acted as general handy man for a place to sleep and some meals.

Whether the old man feared that some day the girl might come with a .38 caliber gun, or whether he was really expecting guests, no one will ever know. By the time he had reached the front room of the barely furnished summer shack, a short, rather pretty girl in a dark blue suit, with the chestnut hair showing beneath her hat, had pushed her way to the front door.

With all the zeal of her Polish aristocratic ancestors whose fervid zeal made them fight a revolution against the Russians and, in consequence, lose their lands, the girl demanded the man she wanted.

But Smith had already left for his office with John H. Dunham & Co., 1014 Wrigley building.

He was the first choice of the girl's gun. Her mother, back in her home at 1505 Augusta street, remembered rights of will and knew that "Friends in Greenhills" village, New York, remember her recent confession that she would "do it all."

And Edmund Glasko, a Russian millionaire factory owner, who had sent his son to live in a cheap rooming house at 2245 Fremont street, he knows she wanted to kill Smith. For it was his son, Zdzislaw [To] Glasko, the only one to do well in the heroic and patriotic Russian family, who is Wanda's husband. And the father, who still stands a bit straighter when he recalls the brave death of his sons, captains in the Russian army, and recollects the 6,000 men he had working for him, remembers that Wanda begged "Ted to send her and Smith prison candy, so they could both die."

Mrs. Smith III.

But Smith wasn't there. So the girl forced her way to the door of the bedroom, where Mrs. Smith lay ill. She was the wife of a man who had been her husband's financial and affectionate, but altogether proper relations with the Polish girl. And she had refused to divorce her husband.

So Wanda Stofsky sent three bullets toward the woman, who cowered under the covers, then struggled to her feet and fell out of the window.

Manning, the only one in the whirl of complications who was entirely aloof from the situation, sought to deflect the bullets by stretching out his arms in front of the bedroom folding doors. The world's "brainiest girl" shot out a challenge in dollars and cents.

"How am I going to live? Who's going to take care of me?"

Protected by Manning.

Half protected by the old caretaker, Mrs. Smith sent back, "You're a lawyer. Why don't you go to work?" before she stumbled out of the window.

Manning stretched his veined hands out a bit further. The girl leveled her gun once more.

The bullet went through Manning's cheek and he crumpled to the floor, dead.

Mrs. Smith Tells Thrilling Story of Escaping Bullets

Mrs. Verna D. Smith, wife of Y. K. Smith, was questioned at length by Assistant State's Attorney Robert E. McMillan in the home of a friend in Palos Park last night. Mrs. Smith was taken to the place a few hours after she was interviewed by police and it was with difficulty that Prosecutor McMillan learned her whereabouts.

She was quizzed while reclining on a divan, where she had been confined since her harrowing experience. She gave the prosecutor an insight into the two years' acquaintance with Miss Stofsky, beginning by a chance meeting in a studio on the north side and ending in a fusillade of bullets in her home in Palos Park yesterday morning.

She told of the love which the woman expressed for her husband and also of the threats of death and exposure which she has made during the last year.

The questioning was as follows: Q—When was the first time you met her? A—About the spring of 1922.

Trouble with Husband.

Q—When was the first time you heard she was having any trouble with your husband? A—She was very friendly with my husband and my husband was friendly with her, because he felt sorry for her and I also felt sorry for her. She was married to a man who she claimed abused her, and my husband's aim was to separate her from this man, who was very cruel to her, and set her free in a good, clean, sane way of living, because this man was of very bad character.

Q—Did she ever threaten to kill you? A—She threatened to kill me last summer. She came to our studio at 19 East Ohio and my husband was talking to me, and she came in. She didn't threaten me direct at that time. When I opened the door I saw who it was. She came in and said: "Where is Mr. Smith?" I replied that he was at his office. She then asked when he would be back.

Brothers Knew of Affair.

Her brothers, Henry Stofsky, with the sanitary department of the county, and Walter, employed by the board of education, both knew of Wanda's love for the advertising man.

"She used to come home and tell us about how she loved him and how he loved her, and that she wanted to die, her life was so unhappy and so complicated," Walter Stofsky said. "She told us all that Mr. Smith loved her and that he would marry her as soon as he could get a good excuse to divorce his wife. She told us that when she first knew Smith, whom she met in a north side artist's studio, he was not living with his wife. His wife, he explained to her at the time he met Wanda, was in love with a Chicago musician and was only waiting for the musician's return from Germany to divorce Smith. Then Wanda used to tell us the Smiths would be divorced. A desire to shield his wife's reputation alone kept him from divorcing her at once and marrying Wanda when she and Smith first met, so our sister told us."

Wanda was a quiet, studious girl who never went to dances without her mother or her brother until she met Ted Glasko at the home of Sophia Jaworski, Mrs. Stofsky said. Within a week, after a whirlwind courtship, the pair were married at Crown Point, Ind. Until that day, her mother declared, Wanda had been a bookish girl, more interested in her studies and her reading than in men.

Came from Warsaw.

The Stofsky family came from Warsaw to Chicago before the Panama exposition in San Francisco, where Mr. Stofsky took his family while he modeled many of the statues which decorated the buildings of the San Francisco world's fair.

According to Mrs. Stofsky, her husband was at one time considered the best modeler in clay in Chicago and exhibited at the Chicago Art institute. The family has always been prosperous. Mrs. Stofsky, only 40 years old, is the daughter of a petty nobleman of Poland whose lands were confiscated by Russia because of a Polish uprising he took part in about fifty years ago.

That the family is one of breeding is shown in Mrs. Stofsky's dress, her mannerisms, and the fine restraint of her conduct last night in the face of the tragic news brought her of her daughter.

When she was 17 years old, in 1917, Wanda was graduated from high school. Never, said her mother, did the girl's grades fall below 90. Many perfect monthly records were sent home on her report cards.

In 1921, while Wanda was a student of the Kant College of Law, the Stofsky family went back for a two year visit to Warsaw, but the girl refused to go along because she wanted to finish her law course. She did not return to live at home after her mother returned, but was a frequent visitor at home, where her constant conversation was about Kenley Smith. She was very unhappy, the Stofsky said, and brooded continually upon the sin of her love for a married man.

Such is the picture the mother draws of her ambitious, studious daughter, who came home to weep out her troubles, but declined to follow her mother's advice.

Recently Miss Stofsky lived at 61 East Elm street, 19 East Ohio street, and 18 East Huron street.

Comes of Noble Stock; Father a Modeler.

BY MAUREEN McKERNAN.

Wanda Stofsky was a girl who always came home and told her mother all about her love affairs, her successes, her tragedies, and her ambitions. She even told her all about the progress of her love affair with Y. Kenley Smith.

At all times she was in her daughter's confidence, Mrs. Harriet Stofsky said last night.

"She begged to bring him home to meet us all," said Mrs. Stofsky. "She said she wanted to know her people, but I told her that this home was sacred and she could not bring him here."

For no gray haired man, no matter how rich, who makes love to a little girl while he has a wife is anything but a burn. I told Wanda he was not a fit man for my house and I begged her to forget him. She used to cry and say she wished she could, but that she could not. He was so brilliant, so well educated, he knew so much about the fine side of living, and he taught her so much, Wanda would tell me."

DIVORCEE PLAYS DETECTIVE AND LANDS QUARRY

Mrs. Olive Farley, blonde and bobbed haired divorcee, had breakfast yesterday with Joseph O'Connor in her room at the Hayes hotel. Later he telephoned her and announced that he had taken an automobile and a $1,000 Liberty bond which she claims he once gave her. Their courtship was off and he was saying good-bye.

Mrs. Farley asked hotel attaches to trace the telephone call. The police were notified, and while she talked tearfully with O'Connor, Sgt. Larry Burns and his squad sped to the drug store at Diversey parkway and Clark street. They arrived just as O'Connor was saying:

"Well, Olive, you aren't as smart as you think you are!"

He claimed the automobile and bond were his. He said he was "trying to get rid of" Mrs. Farley. The police compromised by booking both of them for disorderly conduct. O'Connor left the Liberty bond as ball for the woman and himself, and together they rode away in the disputed automobile.

DISAGREEMENT DELAY WIDEN OF LA SALLE

Question of Finance in the Way.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Many persons have the impression that the improvement of the street is developing rapidly.

It is not a case of procrastination, but of a difference of opinion on what should be attempted. The chief difficulty is the width of the thoroughfare between Ohio and Eugene streets.

The Chicago plan commission recommended that La Salle be widened to 100 feet wide between Washington and Randolph streets, then 120 feet between Randolph and Ohio and 100 feet wide between Ohio and Eugene streets, which is approximately the width of Lincoln park.

Owners Make Protest.

A majority of the property owners between Ohio and Eugene streets filed a protest. They have urged La Salle, in this stretch, remain present width, but that the proposed limits be increased from 30 feet. At the same time it has suggested that the width between Randolph and the river be made 100 feet and from the river to Ohio 100 feet. The board of local improvements has tentatively accepted the plan.

The Chicago plan commission considers this compromise an extraordinary mistake, and has launched a campaign to show the property owners where they would be personally benefited in real money by the widening of 100 feet north of Ohio.

Sees Financial Difficulty.

On the other hand, President of the board of local improvements almost sweating blood in an effort to find money with which to make improvements already started.

require more money than can be raised by bond issue because of the present high cost of money. The plan commission has tentatively accepted the plan.

However, the plan commission's elaborate engineering and real estate estimates show that the improvement to the abutting property owners is increased 25 per cent. The increased value to their property will be double what they will receive between Ohio and Eugene streets.

Wacker Sees Benefits.

"I am certain beyond all question," said Chairman Wacker, yesterday, "that we are right. Assume that the cost of the improvement under compromise will be $100, then by property owner's spending $25 a year he will get twice the benefit he receives for the first $100. Every property owner can have that demonstration to his or her satisfaction. My plan is that it is of large financial benefit to the property owners north of Ohio to have La Salle street widened."

"To a large part of the city benefit will also be large and the relief of traffic will be enormous."

The Michigan avenue improvement has demonstrated what can be done by the building of adequate thoroughfares. The increase of values property affected by that improvement has been truly enormous. That is not a matter of surmise or opinion, has been proven beyond all question by the sales and leases."

COAL MEN GET THEIRS IN FULL

Two officials of the Gaynor Coal company, 3233 South La Salle street, yesterday were found guilty of short weighing customers by a jury.

Evidence submitted showed that the company had delivered only 17 pounds of coal to Henry Schwab, 3121 West Fulton street, on an order for 21,500 pounds.

DISAGREEMENTS DELAY WIDENING OF LA SALLE ST.

Question of Finance Also in the Way.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Many persons have the impression that the improvement of La Salle street is developing rapidly, but it is questionable whether the project is really under way, despite the action of the previous board of local improvements more than a year ago and the subsequent approval of the voters of a $2,500,000 bond issue for a bridge across the river.

It is not a case of procrastination, but of a difference of opinion on what should be attempted. The chief difficulty is the width of the thoroughfare between Ohio and Eugene streets. The Chicago plan commission has recommended that La Salle be made 100 feet wide between Washington and Randolph streets, then 120 feet wide between Randolph and Ohio streets, and 108 feet wide between Ohio and Eugene streets, which is approximately Lincoln park.

Owners Make Protest.

A majority of the property owners between Ohio and Eugene streets have filed a protest. They have urged that La Salle, in this stretch, remain at its present width, but that the present roadway be increased from 36 to 56 feet. At the same time it has been suggested that the width between Randolph and the river be made only 100 feet and from the river to Ohio streets, 108 feet. The board of local improvements has tentatively accepted this so-called compromise.

The Chicago plan commission considers this compromise an extremely serious mistake, and has launched a campaign to show the property owners where they would be personally benefited in real money by the original width of 108 feet north of Ohio street.

Sees Financial Difficulty.

On the other hand, President Sloan of the board of local improvements is almost sweating blood in an effort to find money with which to make other improvements already started. These require more money than can be obtained by bond issues because of the legal limitation of bonding power. If the state were clean he would enter more eagerly into more extended expenditures on La Salle street. He does not lack enthusiasm for the improvement, but hasn't been able to burden the financial difficulties in its path to date.

However, the plan commission has elaborate engineering and cost estimates to show that if the cost of the improvement to the abutting property owners is increased 36 per cent the increased value to their property will be double what they will otherwise be between Ohio and Eugene streets.

Wacker Sees Benefits.

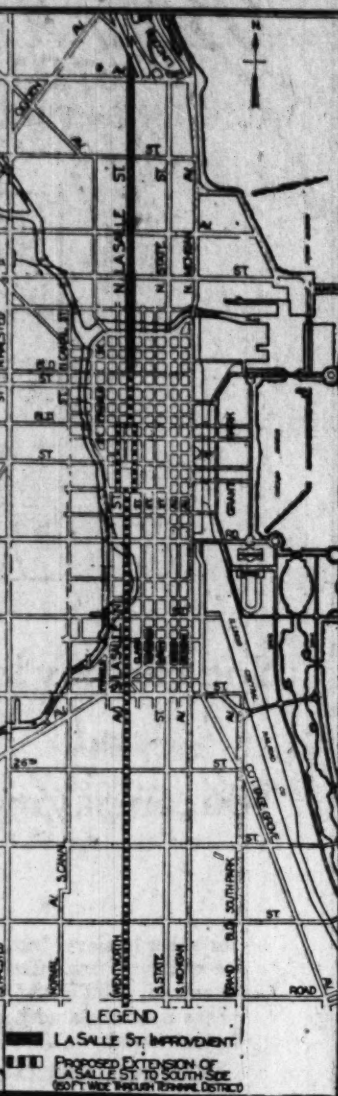

"I am certain beyond all questions," said Chairman Wacker yesterday, "that we are right. Assume that the cost of the improvement under the compromise will be $100, then by the property owner's expenditure $56 more he will get twice the benefit he will receive for the first $50. Every property owner can have that demonstrated to his or her satisfaction. My point is that it is of large financial benefit to the property owners north of Ohio to have La Salle street widened. ## BIRDSEYE VIEW OF PROPOSED LA SALLE STREET IMPROVEMENT

TAXPAYERS HEAR WIDENING PLANS FOR N. CLARK ST.

Approve Idea Given by Sloan.

North Clark street can be widened to 100 feet from Lincoln Park West to Diversey park way at a cost of not more than $1,500,000 interested property owners headed by Ald. Thomas O. Wallace (44th) were told yesterday by John J. Sloan, president of the board of local improvements.

Already plans have been prepared for the widening of Clark street from North avenue to Lincoln Park West as soon as the Lincoln park board surrenders the needed twenty feet of the east parkway to the city. To complete this work before Aug. 1 appropriations of $60,000 from the vehicle tax fund will be sought by Mr. Sloan in an early council meeting.

Public hearings on an extension of the improvement to Diversey parkway will be scheduled within the next two weeks as the result of the petition filed with the improvement board yesterday by Ald. Wallace. Meanwhile engineers will begin a survey to determine actual costs and methods.

Mr. Sloan suggested that the widening be accomplished by cutting off thirty-four feet of the east side of the street from Lincoln Park West to Diversey parkway. Some of the property owners advised cutting off seven feet on each side of the street north of Wrightwood avenue, and Paul Gerhardt, well known architect, suggested that thirty-four feet be taken from the east side south of Wrightwood and from the west side north of that point.

Adoption of their plan to cut off seventeen feet on both sides of the street north of Wrightwood avenue would result in lower building damage costs to the city, the property owners pointed out. All, however, agreed to abide by the recommendations of the board of local improvements' engineers.

Neighbors of Raf Family Make Up Purse for Relief

Several hundred dollars were collected yesterday by business men in the McKinley Park neighborhood for the aid of Hermann Raf and his wife, Nellie, 3804 South Robey street, whose children were drowned in the McKinley park lagoon Wednesday night.

EXECUTIVES OF ROADS ORGANIZE FOR TERMINAL

Organization of railroad executives' committees to hasten the consolidation of the La Salle street, Dearborn, and Grand Central railroads in a $100,000,000 terminal were reported to Mayor Dever yesterday by James E. Gorman, president of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad.

The union station project is an important phase in the city's plans for development of the near south JAMES E. GORMAN, side railroad terminal. Straightening of the river and consolidation of the railroad terminals, with resultant elimination of much of the existing mass of tracks, will make possible the opening of Dearborn, La Salle, Wells, and Market streets to the south side.

Three committees to "cooperate wholeheartedly with the city in facilitating as rapidly as may be the various details of this project" were named by the railroad officials at a meeting in his office a few days ago, President Gorman wrote to Mayor Dever yesterday.

One of them, a group of the so-called "landlord" railroads who own the

GOING TO PRESS, WE HEAR OF BANK ROBBERY IN '74

Bloomington, Ill., April 24.—How the National bank of Pontiac was robbed of $7,000 nearly fifty years ago and the robbery kept a secret was revealed to the public last night by O. P. Bourland, president, at an event celebrating the semi-centennial anniversary of the institution.

While Mr. Bourland was cashier, in the early days of the bank's history, a stranger entered one day and engaged him in conversation. After the stranger had left the loss was discovered, and it was believed a confederate had robbed the safe while the cashier's attention was diverted.

Mr. Bourland and James E. Morrow, the then president, made up the loss and said nothing about it. The money was never recovered.

Revolt in Two Cuban Provinces, Havana Report

HAVANA, Cuba, April 24.—Local papers print a report of a revolution in Camaguey and Oriente provinces. They assert that Gen. The government denies the report.

TRACTION DEAL UNAFFECTED BY ROBBINS SUIT

City and Car Line Officials Continue Talks.

Negotiations between city officials and traction and banking heads, relative to municipal ownership of the surface lines, will continue unaffected by the restraining suit filed in Circuit court on behalf of shareholders in the street car lines.

The courts cannot restrain the city and the traction company from talking the matter over unofficially, it was agreed.

The negotiators, headed by Henry A. Blair, president of the surface lines, met in Mayor Dever's office according to schedule yesterday and set their next meeting for Monday, without regard to the suit. The point at issue is still the personnel of the board of control. The traction company contends it is understood, that the city shall not have majority control until it has paid a major portion of the purchase price.

Mr. Blair's Opinion. It was doubted by Mr. Blair, following the meeting, whether the suit in the Circuit court could have any greater standing than the similar suit decided against the shareholders in federal court on March 22.

Mayor Dever left his office following the conference and did not return, but Corporation Counsel Busch spoke for the administration and asserted that the city would continue the conferences.

Real Purpose of Suit. From the statement of Henry S. Robbins, counsel who filed the suit, it was gathered that it is directed not so much at the negotiations, but is aimed to bring about a reorganization within the surface lines before the negotiations are concluded.

Though acting for the company against the shareholders in the recent elevated reorganization, Mr. Robbins declared the elevated interests or any other interests have nothing to do with the suit. He asserted that two-thirds of the holders of participation certificates known as Series 1, were back of the move, seeking a shakeup which would place on the surface company board directors who would represent their interests during, as well as after, the conclusion of the conferences in the mayor's office.

Revolt in Two Cuban Provinces, Havana Report

HAVANA, Cuba, April 24.—Local papers print a report of a revolution in Camaguey and Oriente provinces. They assert that Gen. Carlos Garcia y Velaz, president of the Veterans and Patriots association, who was last heard of as in the United States, has landed in Oriente and taken charge of the revolution. The government denies the report.

One of them, a group of the so-called "landlord" railroads who own the

COLD WEATHER SET TO BATTLE SPRING TODAY

Stop! Did you take 'em off? Put 'em on again, quick!

A fine assortment of weather is en route from the Rockies and a cold wave is scheduled to hit Chicago this afternoon or tonight, according to the man who juggles high and low pressure areas in the federal building tower.

Old Man Boreas has taken a touch of balmy air, a pinch of winter, a few drops of rain, and some snow, and is hurling it all eastward from his throne on the Rockies.

Snow fell in Wyoming and Colorado yesterday. The weather man says it will change to cold rain when it reaches the regions of the Mississippi valley and the Great Lakes today.

In fact, the temperature began falling sooner than the weather man anticipated. Yesterday started out at 3 a. m. with 54 degrees, rose to 76 at 1 p. m., dropped slightly, rallied again to 72 at 10 last night, and then, two hours later, was loitering around the 52 degree mark.

So put 'em back on!

JURORS CLEAR BOY WHO KILLED BRUTAL FATHER

Youth Tells of Firing to Defend Mother.

BY MAURINE WATKINS.
Dominick Galluzzo, the 15 year old boy who killed his father Wednesday night, was exonerated yesterday afternoon by a coroner's jury, which found the death "justifiable homicide." The boy was released by the police to go back to his work and help to support the mother he had defended.

They waited anxiously, this Italian mother, who understands no English, and the 13 year old brother, while Dominick gave his account of the shooting. And the baby sister clutched some sticky chocolates in one hand and with the other reached for the old rusty revolver that had killed her father.

Sole, earnest-eyed, Dominick told rapidly how his father had come home at 10 o'clock Wednesday and started quarreling with his mother because she had had him "fired" from the factory where they both worked. Threats to kill her and the children were followed by blows which he and his brother, Sam, tried in vain to stop. And then—

Tells of Shooting Father.
"He went into the bedroom, where he kept the gun, but I beat him to it. I shot up in the air to scare him, but he wasn't scared, and came after me, and I ran out on the porch and shot again—straight down. Then he grabbed my arm," the boy finished quietly. "and I shot again—through his breast."

Policemen testified that the boy gave himself up, first stating that his father had shot himself, but later confessing that he had fired the shot.

Sari, a frightened boy in knee trousers, told how his father had threatened their lives many times and had beaten his mother nearly every night for over four years. Jealousy was given as the reason for these quarrels—Charles Galluzzo claimed that his wife was running around with other men and accused her of spending the money she earned at the Chococandy factory on them.

Scarcely Looks Like Siren.
The woman, who held her baby close to her heart, didn't look like the reason for such jealousy; shapeless, with gray hair straggling uncombed, sunken cheeks and toothless gums, she looked 40 instead of 38. And her husband had noticed that, too.

"Right in the factory he said to her, 'See all these pretty young girls around here—and you're an ugly old thing!'" said her son. "And then he struck her—before all the people—and that's why he got fired."

Mother Defends Her Son.
The mother poured forth torrents of new Italian in an effort to save her son. Her husband was beating her, yes, and threatening to kill her, yes, and the children, too; and he got the gun first, and chased Dominick with it; and then in the scuffle the shot was fired—and she couldn't say who did it Dominick? No, no, no, no—her husband may have done it himself!

COL. R. H. MORSE SEEKS RELIEF IN TAX TANGLE

Formal suit was begun yesterday in Superior court by Col. Robert H. Morse to determine whether he must pay inheritance taxes on the estate of his father, Charles H. Morse, which are over one-third more than he was bequeathed under the will.

The elder Morse, founder of Fairbanks, Morse & Co., made bequests to his son totaling about $1,896,000. The will requires that Robert Morse and his brother, Charles H. Morse Jr., bear equally the entire tax expense of the estate, which is estimated in the suit at $5,800,000. Thus the complainant is required by the will to pay $2,900,000 in taxes from his $1,896,000 legacy.

The reason for such a requirement, as explained in the will, was that Morse, who left a $22,000,000 estate, wished his bequest to his daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Genus of Chicago, to be "sufficient for her reasonable needs, and free from any incumbrance."

The suit has no effect on another, filed by Col. Morse two years ago, in which he sought to have set aside the entire will. At that time he charged that his father had been improperly influenced by Mrs. Genus to leave her approximately $9,000,000.

The purpose of the latest suit, filed before Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan, is to obtain a decree by which the inheritance tax will be paid from the residuary estate, which was bequeathed to Mrs. Genus.

RICKETS CURE DISCOVERED BY MICHIGAN MEN

Lansing, Mich., April 24.—Discovery of a new method of preventing and curing rickets and malnutrition both in animals and human beings was announced today by Prof. R. C. Huston and H. D. Experiments, the professors said, have shown that these nutritional diseases may be prevented and cured by the administering of hydroquinone, a commercial compound used in photographic development work.

ORDERS INQUIRY INTO FATAL FALL OF NAVY'S PLANE

A naval board of inquiry will attempt today to establish the cause of the airplane crash at the Great Lakes Naval Training station yesterday in which two aviators, J. N. Green and N. R. Cruikshank, chief riggers and both experienced airmen, lost their lives.

Capt. Waldo Evans, commandant at the station, expressed doubt that the real cause of the accident ever will be established.

The crash was witnessed by Mrs. Cruikshank, wife of one of the victims, and her two children from a window of their North Chicago home. Mrs. Cruikshank was watching the plane sailing at a height of between 1,000 and 1,500 feet above the parade ground.

"Perhaps daddy is up there," she was telling her 5 year old daughter, Norma, and little Richard, aged 2, when the plane was seen to dive suddenly toward the earth.

Norma has been deaf ever since her father took her up in his plane when she was 3 years old, but she understood what her mother was saying.

What Mrs. Cruikshank had thought to be merely a short nose dive caused her to stiffen with fright as the airplane, nose downward, shot below the rim of the trestle. Mrs. Cruikshank rushed to the phone, but she did not call up. Back to the window she ran, hoping against hope the plane might rise again above the trees. Back to the phone and then back to the window again. She waited a few moments and was just about to call the Great Lakes headquarters when a naval officer rapped at the door. Then she was told.

An inquest was held last night, but the cause of the accident was not determined. A verdict of accidental death was returned. The plane struck and split a small tree as it fell at the edge of the drill ground in front of the administration building. Green, who was piloting it, was killed instantly.

The average Health Span reaches only from age 18 to age 31, according to the United States Life Tables, 1920

Life gives you just 13 years of real health and happiness

ASSUMING that you are the average person, you will enjoy health—physical freedom and full vigor—only from age 18 to 31. This astounding fact is shown by the United States Life Tables, 1920.

Your earning power will decrease rapidly after 40. That period commonly called "the prime of life" will actually be an age of decay.

This sounds sensational. It is sensational. But it is true—and it is something to which the wise man or woman will give serious thought.

Of course, it is not natural, or right. It is the direct result of an artificial mode of life—of careless eating, sleeplessness, and stimulated nerves. Nature provides a danger signal—fatigue—to warn when the body needs rest. The person who regularly deadens the fatigue signal by the use of a drug is overriding the warning of nature.

That is what coffee does. The average cup of coffee contains from 1½ to 3 grains of the drug caffeine, which is classified as a poison. This is a dose of caffeine of the size often administered by physicians in cases of heart failure. It is a powerful stimulant. It appears to give new strength, by deadening the fatigue signal. Actually, this new strength is robbed from the body's own reserve.

Coffee contains no nourishment. Its only virtues, as a beverage, are its warmth and flavor. A good, hot, drugless drink is a benefit with every meal.

Millions enjoy such a drink in Postum. A wholesome drink, made of whole wheat and bran, skillfully roasted, with a little sweetening—nothing more. A drink with the rich, mellow, full-bodied flavor of this life-giving grain. Every member of the family can drink it every meal of the day, enjoy its deliciousness, crave it, knowing there isn't a sleepless hour, a headache, or a taut nerve in it.

For the sake of your years following age 31, we want you to change to Postum for thirty days. You can't expect to overcome the effects of a habit of years in two or three days, or even a week. To make this a sporting proposition, we will give you a week's supply of Postum free. Enough for a cup with every meal for a week. But we want you to carry on for the full thirty days.

FOUR BALLOONS HEAD THIS WAY; STORM FELS 3

Survivors May Reach
Lake Region Today.

Kansas City, Mo., April 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—Four of the seven balloons which took the air late Wednesday at Kellie field, San Antonio, Tex., in the national balloon elimination race, were still up tonight, tracing their way through uncharted and in some cases stormy paths.

As darkness came on the second day of the race the four remaining contestants, approximately 1,000 miles from the starting point, were drifting rapidly northward with prospects of a bad night ahead.

Should the pilots ride out rainstorms predicted for tonight in their path in the central west they should show up tomorrow morning in the great lakes region. If they do, the race will be over when day breaks; they are almost sure to smash the American distance record.

May Be Recalled.

Another hazard, according to weather officials, is that the gas bags may be becalmed during the night and forced down by drifting into an area of low pressure which is moving eastward from over Nebraska.

Those still in the race early tonight are: Capt. H. E. Honeywell, piloting the Kansas City Cooperative club entry, "Honeywell"; Herbert von Thaden, piloting "Detroit," entry of the Detroit Aviation society; Wild T. Van Orman, piloting "Goodyear No. 3"; and Maj. Norman W. Peak, piloting U. S. army balloon No. 1.

Three Forced to Land.

Two of the balloons, Lieut. Ashley McKinley's, representing the army, and Pilot B. H. Fournier's, representing San Antonio, were forced down early today in Oklahoma. The pilots and their side landed without injury.

Army balloon No. 2, piloted by Capt. Edmund W. Hill, landed at Milne, Kan., at 6:30 p. m., as the result of an electrical storm, with no injury to occupants or craft.

A balloon was sighted over Kansas City at 5:34 p. m., and an army plane from Richards field flew close enough to see that the balloonists were either taking their evening repast or indulging in a game of cards. He waved at the men in the basket and they returned his greeting.

Numerous points in Kansas reported having sighted the balloons late today and early tonight three of the bags had passed over the Missouri river near St. Joseph, Mo.

Honeywell Ducks Trouble.

Capt. Honeywell, piloting the Kansas City entry, drifted over Waverly, Kas., shortly before 6 o'clock and dropped a message to the Associated Press: "A twisting wind and snowstorm at 11,000 feet forced him to descend to about 1,000 feet, the pilot said."

A balloon drifting low passed over Platt City, Mo., shortly after 6 p. m. The aeronauts shouted to persons on the ground to get their bearings and then threw out indicators and shot up, disappearing to the northeast.

STORM TOYS WITH VAGRANT BALLOONS

1—Seven balloons left San Antonio, Tex., night before last in an endurance race.
2—They hope to reach northern Maine as their goal.
3—The S-4 is reported well on the way to win, being far in the lead, and flying high over Green Bay, Wis. It is predicted that all the balloons that remain in the air will take the path of S-4 and will be in the region of the great lakes by morning.
4—The Army No. 3 and the independent Fournier balloon are reported down in Oklahoma. Both were wrecked, but the occupants escaped. Army balloon No. 2 is down at Moine, Kas. The balloons which were over Kansas City at sunset are apparently drifting over Missouri. Several have been carried over Kansas City.
5—Numerous balloons have been sighted over Kansas, flying high.
6—The area of low atmospheric pressure which was over the Dakotas is moving rapidly southward, is now over Nebraska, and is increasing. It is carrying the balloons eastward.

POLICE EXPECT JEWEL THEFTS TO DECLINE 50%

Cancellation of jewelry insurance by London Lloyds—to be followed, it is said, with similar action by American companies—will reduce jewelry thefts 50 per cent, local police officials predicted yesterday.

An increase of more than 300 per cent in diamond losses within the last year, mostly through theft, caused the British insurance company to order its agent to recall existing policies and refund premiums paid, it is reported.

"No doubt the refusal of Lloyd's and other insurance companies to issue policies on jewelry will result in a change of the selling methods in vogue among large jewelry firms," declared Chief of Detectives Michael Hughes.

Why Mr. John Buzs's Hip Pocket Was Bulging
Spectators in Judge Daniel F. Trude's court fell away from John Buzs, 634 West 59th street, yesterday when Assistant City Prosecutor Thomas A. Dillion called the court's attention to a suspicious bulge in the defendant's hip pocket. Mrs. Monica Buzs, his wife, had just testified he had threatened to shoot her.

"Search him!" ordered the judge. A bailiff approached warily, reached for the pocket, and dragged the weapon forth. It was a hair brush.

"I was afraid I'd have to go to jail and they don't have brushes there," Buzs explained.

THE NEW ENCLOSED SPEEDSTER

Now a new and more exhilarating delight in closed car travel! Now a steadiness, a roadability you never before encountered! Distinctly original in its conception, the Enclosed Speedster combines all the raciness, rakishness and snap of the open Speedster with all the advantages of an enclosed model. It has the turtleback deck, full crown undivided fenders, golf bag holder and all the other open Speedster characteristics. Toned a lustrous gray, with red wheels and black running gear and trimmed in bright nickel. The interior is wonderfully cozy and comfortable—big, wide, loungey seat, soft, downy upholstery, lots of leg room. Speed—getaway—power! This car has everything. Balloon tires and hydraulic four-wheel brakes extra.

Exclusive Kissel features: Specially designed frame, with "kick-up" in front, which gives low center of gravity. Spring side-play adjustment, which by means of a specially designed spring-hanger, with adjustable bearing, prevents all side-play in springs. Hand-fitted braided gaslines which form a silent, velvet-like cushion at all working points and practically eliminate chassis rattles and squeals. Thermosonic control, an integral part of cylinder head—results in better thermal efficiency of engine, more power, less gasoline consumption. Patented control of engine lubrication automatically regulates oil feed and pressure to speed and load of car.

THAW PENS M OF WORDS AB TRIAL TO JU

Says Alienist Had Gr Against Him.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—In a rambling signed statement Harry Thaw, it was learned yesterday, voiced objection to his removal from the trial jury under guard at the trial jury had pronounced a verdict. The statement was signed "Here is a small detail that day if Dr. 'Rabbit' Fuller would have allowed me to return my attendant, Mr. Connolly, as certain either Dr. Aven Connolly. But he paraded with two attendants, and that was the limit. I am sending this to you, for you show that that rabbit he was a malice as you can see. Yours truly, H. H. Thaw."

Writes to Trial Judge.
In another letter, addressed to Monaghan, Thaw asked to be removed from the jury to his mother's or else to some institution not controlled by Dr. Fuller. This letter was signed:

"I object to remain in a building charge of the doctor who got this trial record. [Thaw evidently referring to the hospital records of treatment of rabbits, introduced a trial.] I might not object as he furnished his false record six years until he showed yesterday he has a stability nor common sense, though his lack of judgment yesterday was less serious than his lack of judgment for other persons whom he has treated."

Thaw asserted he had a row with Dr. Fuller in 1908 (apparently meaning 1918), and the hospital records regarding the rabbits were falsified as a result.

His Letter Continues.
"There are two points I want to speak to Your Honor," Thaw declares. "First, I never knew of record until Dr. Charles K. Miller testified; no doctor said a word. Second, that Dr. Bond I believe I never want any harm done to be injured; but that in 1918 Copp was Superintendent, and Owen Copp is very specially called of such."

The only obstacle to freedom Thaw appears to be his former attorney, Evelyn Nesbit. Her attorney has filed formal action for a trial of the sanity case, and until it is done Thaw must remain confined. Evelyn is coming up tomorrow to Atlantic City to consult her lawyer. She may decide, however, like Thaw estate trustees, to accept verdict.

THAW PENS MAZE OF WORDS ABOUT TRIAL TO JUDGE

Says Alienist Had Grudge Against Him.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 24.—(Special.)—In a rambling signed statement Harry Thaw, it was learned today, voiced objection to his return to the state asylum under guard, although the trial jury had pronounced him of sound mind. The statement reads: "Here is a small detail, that yesterday Dr. 'Rabbit' Puller won the right to have allowed me to return with my attorney, Mr. Connolly, as I am certain either Dr. Aven Copp or Dr. Bond. But he paraded with two other attendants, and that was the limit, consequently I am sending the enclosed letter to my lawyers, and in doing so I am sending this to you, for you can show that rabbit he was simple minded as you can see."

Writes to Trial Judge. In another letter, addressed to Judge Monaghan, Thaw asked to be removed from the asylum to his mother's hotel, or else to some institution not controlled by Dr. Puller. This letter contained: "I object to remain in a building in charge of the doctor who got this hospital record. (Thaw evidently was referring to the hospital records of his treatment of rabbits, introduced at the trial.) I might not object as he had punished his false record six years ago until he showed yesterday he has neither stability nor common sense. Even though his lack of judgment yesterday was less serious than his lack of judgment for other persons whom are not."

Thaw asserted he had a row with Dr. Puller in 1908 (apparently meaning 1910), and the hospital records regarding the rabbit were falsified as a result. His letter continues: "There are two points I should speak to your Honor. Thaw concludes: 'First, I never knew of the record until Dr. Charles K. Mills was testifying, no doctor said a word to me. Second, that Dr. Bond I believe, and I never want any harmless animal to be injured; but that in 1918 Dr. Copp was Superintendent, and Dr. Owen Copp is very specially careful of such.' The only obstacle to freedom for Thaw appears to be his former wife, Evelyn Nesbitt. Her attorney has delayed filing formal action for a new trial of the sanity case, and until that is done Thaw must remain confined. Evelyn is coming up tomorrow from Atlantic City to consult her lawyer. She may decide, however, like the Thaw estate trustees, to accept the verdict."

RECOVERED FROM DEATH ATTEMPT. Helen Jaeger, 19 years old, 1909 St. Paul street, who attempted to end her life by poison, recovered yesterday.

SCHOOL BOARD GETS $2,000,000 FROM COUNTY

Two million dollars was turned over to the school fund yesterday by County Treasurer Patrick J. Carr. Superintendent of Schools William McAndrew and County Superintendent of Schools Edward J. Tobin called upon the treasurer and represented that the wolf was at the schoolhouse door, whereupon Mr. Carr turned loose 2,000,000 wolf chasers.

And a little bit later Harry H. Brackett, auditor of the school board, was seen appending his signature to a $2,000,000 pay roll distribution. It all came about in this way: Trustee John Dill Robertson at the last meeting declared in not getting the taxes as fast as Treasurer Carr collects them the board was losing nearly a million dollars yearly because of the need of borrowing and paying 5 per cent interest.

Just a Touch of Ice-Mint. PRESTO!

Corns With and Lift Out with Fingers. No Pain. Corn sufferers gather around; get right up close and listen, here's good news for you. The real genuine "Corn Killer" is here at last. No humbug, Ice-Mint, the new discovery made from a Japanese product, is said to surely and quickly get rid of corns. Think of it: only a touch or two of that cooling, soothing Ice-Mint and real foot joy is yours. No pain, not a bit of soreness, either when applying it or afterwards, and it doesn't even irritate the surrounding skin. It just makes a pair of tired, swollen, aching, burning feet glow with cooling comfort.

Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes, also toughened callouses just shrivel up and lift off so easily. Every foot sufferer can appreciate a treatment like this, especially women who wear high heel shoes and men who are obliged to stand on their feet all day. Try it. Just ask any drug store for a few cents' worth of Ice-Mint and learn for yourself what solid foot comfort really is. There is nothing better. United Sales & Mfg. Co., Elmira, N.Y.

AUTOIST IS HELD TO GRAND JURY FOR BOY'S DEATH

A coroner's jury yesterday held Frank Formella, 3244 Flak street, to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter with an automobile in connection with the death on April 19 of Charles Fahnino, 15, 421 South LaSalle street.

Witnesses, who were examined by Deputy Coroner Samuel L. Davis testified Formella's automobile was being driven at a speed of thirty miles an hour when it struck the boy.

The Speeders' court for a time will be presided over by Judge. Ara G. Adams, who succeeds Judge John F. O'Connell, transferred to the East Chicago court, it was announced yesterday by Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal court.

THE SARDINI AND THE CAN

One of the best things Chicago traction does is to get into a lawsuit. It is in another one now. Stockholders of the surface lines have filed a bill seeking the removal of Henry Blair and his directors and also to enjoin further negotiations with the city for the sale of the properties.

The city officials now look for an indefinite tieup. People who have not altogether despaired of Chicago traction have been hoping that Mr. Dwyer and Mr. Blair would get together on the purchase plan, not because it would do anything for the city, but because it seems necessary to get it attended to before anything important can be done.

There is a mania to deal with in Chicago, and it is probably no use to try to reason about it. It might as well be accepted. It will not make any difference to Chicago car users where the title to the property is if a change in that is the only change.

If the city acquired control and if it undertook operation and continued to run two car trains, turning every corner possible in the most crowded sections, we would be just where we are now at the best, and if political operation did what it usually does we would be much worse off.

Carter Harrison fought Yerkes to save the streets for the people. We were with him. It was a good principle. Yerkes was a cash buyer. It was not a pretty sight. There was evoked legislation, crooked financing, and political depravity, and yet what Yerkes wanted to do was to give the city a modern transportation system, and what the city did was to keep itself from getting it.

It was a nice principle, but what it did was to keep cable cars running and keep the trolley out. Yerkes' political methods were bad and his traction ideas were right. We fought for compensation to the city. Now we know that compensation to the municipality is the only way to get it.

Nearly all our old ideas were wrong. We never had our eye on the main thing, which was the sufficiency of the transportation. In this respect the city always has been two generations behind its needs because it always pursued a theory and never tried to accomplish anything.

We continue in that rut. We have taken $40,000,000 away from people who use the surface lines, under the pretense that it should be used for their good, and not a cent of it has been so used. This is as bad a bit of bad faith and double crossing as can be imagined. The city has acted as a confidence man. It has been in the banana oil business. Forty million dollars taken from the surface, and they are still in their can.

They are in their can and their political leaders tell them that their salvation lies in owning the can. We remain gluttons for a principle. And stay in the can.

That $40,000,000 could change the aspect of Chicago. It could give the marine a comfort he has despaired of for years. It could hustle him along where he now drags a weary way. We do not think that subway travel is luxurious. It is that only in being brief. New York's subway lines are unpleasant. So is Chicago traction. The difference is that the one agony is short and the other is long. That is a real difference.

If there were a glimmer of common sense in this city it would do two things. As a temporary relief it would route its surface cars to avoid turns in the most crowded streets. It would not have two car trains plowing into the greatest masses of people.

It would get rid of that as an expedient to tide it over until it could get real relief. It would insist on through routing.

With such improvements as could be made as expedients the city then would build subways for permanent relief. It has the money. What it lacks is the common sense. What it has is another lawsuit.

BILL TILDEN IS NO AMATEUR.

A little boy who balked at Sunday school was asked if he didn't want to be a Christian. He said he didn't. He wanted to be a newspaper man. That's Bill Tilden.

David of St. Louis, who put up the tennis cup for which the net stars of the world, white and yellow, compete, has been a money maker as a banker. Tilden, the greatest player of all, makes money by writing pieces for the papers.

A great many American men are handicapped. If they have the price of a meal they must earn it. They must work. An English aristocrat may get his meals by marriage. An American could not marry an English fortune because the girl wants an Englishman. It is hard to get an amateur endorsement.

Tilden made part of his way by writing about tennis. He has been declared ineligible as an amateur because he wrote and was paid for it. He has resigned from the Davis cup squad and the Olympic games. He will quit amateur tennis and continue to earn his living. Such a person found in his day that it was in a fashion dishonorable to write. Persons who could were disreputable and could not be had home for dinner. Tilden is a newspaper person and cannot be an amateur. It gives the feeling that the Davis cup will look well in a Japanese room. We hope it goes there, a testimonial to American snobbery.

NOW WE CAN'T SLEEP.

Paris reports that the French have three new ideas regarding the American debt. The first is that Germany or any other nation should pay it. The second is that it should be paid by France after Germany has paid it to France. The third is that the British should not pay their debt to the United States, thereby relieving France of an unjust imposition.

It is not apparent why France should be worried about this. The old reason for not paying the debt was a Rolls Royce. It never would have worn out. It had us satisfied. There was not a peep from this side. They were not going to pay it because they were not going to pay it. A perfect reason.

We had even forgotten that France, Great Britain, and Belgium had collected some $250,000,000 from the Germans for the upkeep of the American army of occupation on the Rhine and had not paid it over to the United States. We have even now forgotten why it was so just that the Germans should pay and the allies keep it, but it was a perfectly staggering reason at the time. As we recall it, Americans felt ashamed of themselves because they did have a collector's smile of anticipation. Afterward they felt sorry. A nation of money grubbers. Traders and bargainers. They want their coin.

We hope the French will not bother themselves to find any new reasons why they will not pay the debt. It has ceased to worry us. We do not expect to get it. We'd like to forget it. This thing of ringing the door bell at midnight to say that it cannot be paid is keeping us all awake.

If France has insomnia over it, we're sorry. We'd like to sleep and forget it. Four billion is a sum which if mentioned often enough will cause disquiet. Now we can't sleep.

A JAPANESE BOYCOTT.

A Tokio dispatch announces that the Japan Printing association has voted to place a boycott on all goods from California. This is the first reprint notice in connection with the proposed Japanese immigration exclusion bill. Americans need not be disturbed by it. It is an incident. The Japanese are too shrewd to try such tactics on a large scale.

Japan needs American products even more than she needs the American market, and that is saying a good deal. Her import needs just at present are tremendously increased because of the recent disastrous earthquake and fire. Most of the millions of dollars of credits arranged for Japan in this country were based on the understanding that the money should be spent for supplies here. Without the supplies necessary to rehabilitation, the ruined Japanese cities cannot be reconstructed for many years. That is the emergency situation.

The normal situation shows the empire almost equally dependent upon American products. A great deal of Japan's business is in the nature of a jobber of American goods. Japan, for instance, buys immense quantities of American cotton, which it manufactures and sells in the orient. It buys many other kinds of raw materials and semi-finished materials for manufacture and sale, not only to its own people but to China and other far eastern countries. To cut off its supplies of such goods would close innumerable factories and stop the activities of innumerable ships and commercial organizations.

Also, if the question of reprisals really became acute, it would mean the cutting off of the United States as the chief outlet of Japan's greatest commercial industry, the manufacture of silk. It would also take us out of the market for many minor Japanese products. A boycott would be hardly more than an inconvenience and an irritation for us. It would be near suicide for Japan. A great little people will not bite off its nose to spite its face.

GRAND AND GLORIOUS BEACHES.

Arrangements for the transfer of riparian rights along Chicago's north shore to the Lincoln park commission promises the development of bathing beaches from Ohio street to Devon avenue which are expected eventually to rival Atlantic City. Few developments of greater interest and value to the city could be suggested.

Even as they exist today, the Lincoln park district, Lake Shore drive, and various beaches from Oak street to Evanston are a marvel of color, beauty, and healthful recreation to all visitors and to many residents of Chicago in summer. As they will be when developed along the plans outlined with the riparian rights in the hands of the park authorities, they should be a tremendous asset.

Such developments, and the vision and energy which make them possible, are the things which distinguish great cities from small. Two such announcements of constructive plans have been made in Chicago in a day. The city's outlook is bright.

Editorial of the Day

TAXPAYERS WILL PAY FOR SEATTLE'S STREET RAILWAYS.
(Spokane Spokesman-Review.)

In defense of Seattle's costly mistake of buying the street railway system for $15,000,000, the admission is made that the price was excessive. "But even so," as one advocate puts it, "the street railway has made every payment, both of principal and interest, on the spot due date, and is more than $1,000,000 less in debt on deficiency appropriations."

But how has that been accomplished? By relieving the system of payment of taxes and by charging the taxpayers a fare of 10 cents straight or three tickets for 25 cents.

With these advantages any street railway system could pay for itself within a few years.

If a private corporation owned and operated the street railway system in Seattle it would have to pay every year about half a million dollars in taxes. Under municipal ownership the system is totally exempt from taxes.

That half a million dollars a year saved in exemption from taxes would make a sinking fund that would wipe out the bonded indebtedness in a few years.

But that would mean that the taxpayers of the state of Washington would be buying the street railway system for Seattle—buying it with taxes ultimately to present it to Seattle.

IT DOESN'T FAIR YET.
Miss Tupper.
Stenographer—Why, certainly! That's what I'm here for, isn't it?

Employer—I guess so, but my request came so soon after you last telephone conversation that I feared you might be exhausted.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

SLUM TYPES.

There was a time when it was thought that doing away with the slums of cities would do away with the kind of crime which is committed by some of the people who live in the slums. The theory was that the people were a product of their environment. Under the influence of that theory some places tried to do away with slums by tearing down buildings, opening up spaces, parks, and boulevards, and building what were called garden cities.

While the effects of such changes were good, they were disappointing in that the slum people did not get off the face of the earth; they merely shifted their quarters to other sections. They were not living in garden cities. The next theory was that slums were the products of slum people rather than the other way; slums developed because people of a certain mental state and a certain social type do not feel adequate or sufficient anywhere except in that type of buildings, streets, and alleys which go by the name of slums. Feeling adequate, equal, and sufficient is the only way of saying comfortable and happy.

If people of the slum type do not live among them, they will not slum. If the slums in which they live are converted into a garden city they will move away and find slums somewhere. That was the second theory. The tide was clear over on the other side. It is running back toward the first side. Lamarck said man was principally the product of his environment. Weismann said man was not at all the product of his environment. The truth appears to lie about midway between. Slums make slum people. Slum people make slums. Recent study has shown the slum people of just how slums make slum people. One of the plagues of machinery is very interesting. It grew out of a study of primroses by Darwin. It was continued as a study of goldfish by Chinese, Japanese, and many Europeans and Americans.

MacBride, the Englishman, in discussing Tounier's, the Frenchman's, explanation of the sports studies by the Hollanders, Darwin, said, "It is the offspring of similar sports in the human race that fill the slums of our great cities." Tounier's theory was that so-called slum people developed because of inherited nutrition, principally during pregnancy. In plainer language: If a pregnant woman drank whisky or used opium or a bad medicine or ate an unhealthy much of the time the baby would be of some degenerate type. This theory furnishes a scientific basis for maternity work. There are some who will say that it gives support to the birth-kanon notion.

Dr. Evans writes: I have read a certain line of a certain kind of work in which I have to stoop over for a while, and I can hardly stand up straight again for a few minutes because of the pains in my back. I also have a pain in the knee mostly all the time. It's a terrible pain. I don't feel it when I walk, but I do when I sit down, and when I stand up again it pains so awful that I can hardly stand. And sometimes I get it in my arm and neck. It's a couple of days, and sometimes it is in my neck. Otherwise, I am very healthy and strong. I sleep well and have a very good appetite.

REPLY.

You have lumbar. In all probability you are "full of rheumatism." It is a condition which you need to change some of your habits. Are you constipated?

Do you get enough exercise? Do you eat sensibly? Have you any focus of infection? Folks who "keep full of rheumatism" must change their habits somehow if they are to get comfortable and stay that way.

DRINK MORE WATER.

1. Kindly tell me if a red brick color sediment left from urine is a sign of diseased kidneys or some impurity in food.

2. Is coffee bad for the kidneys?

REPLY.

1. Probably neither. Urine standing in the cold turns down a red precipitate. If you will drink more water and eat more vegetables and fruit, not even so weather will cause such a precipitate. 2. In excessive amounts it is.

WHEN LEASE IS AUTOMATICALLY RENEWED.
Chicago, April 23.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—I. Over ten years ago a flat was rented which I still occupy. A lease at that time was given for one year. Since then none has been given. Does this automatically renew itself every year upon landlord's acceptance of rent?

2. During the above period rent has been raised a number of times, and in each instance I was given a verbal notice thirty days in advance. Is this legal? Is sixty days notice required? R. T. T.

3. If at the end of a tenancy for an agreed term the tenant holds over and the landlord does not intend to renew the lease, is it a renewal by implication, so that neither party can end the tenancy or increase the rent before the end of the renewal year and then only upon sixty days notice to the other? If renewal is not upon precisely the same terms as the original lease, but is sometimes called a tenancy from year to year, requiring notice to terminate which was not required upon the original lease.

4. You would not have been obliged to comply with notices increasing the rent during any of the years of your tenancy, but since you appear to have accepted the increase, your question must be yes. In other words, what has been done would seem legal.

HIGH TAX RATES.
Chicago, April 23.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a vacant lot the taxes upon which are too great. I cannot dispose of this lot for $350, although I have had it on sale for the last year. Yet I am taxed on it at a valuation of $550. To whom can I apply to have this adjusted? G. A. T.

It is too late to secure an adjustment as to 1923 taxes which are now payable. As to 1924 taxes, you should inquire of the assessor of the ward and file objection with the board of review.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

HURRAY FOR OUR SIDE!

You can get of California, where it's summer all year round. Where oranges and flowers grow, and snow never decks the ground; But let me live up north and watch the Spring come round.

O, California's balm, and a garden, I'll admit. They don't wear fleecy-lined undies and the sox their grandmas knit; But they've never known a Christmas in the true sense of the word— Only in the movies and the stories they have heard.

I'm not so keen for winter, for sometimes it's bleak and drear. But if we didn't have it we would live a tiresome year.

O! everlasting summer, with no change to bring a thrill, So I'd rather stand the snowstorms and the endless winter chill. I'll stand the melancholy days, the snow upon the ground.

Just to live up north in April and watch the Spring come round.

WEST AFRICAN LIZBIE.

THEY'VE arrested the robber maid in New York known as the "Bobbied Bandit." This is good news to those who favor the retention of the horse and buggy hair. Naturally, if the lady bandit had bobbed hair then it was the bobbed hair that caused her to be a lady bandit. Anyhow, if she had kept her hair long she would have been so busy washing and drying and combing it that she would not have had time to do any banditling.

SH! DON'T TELL! DON'T TELL!

R. H. L.: Now I know! I suspected all along that Helen Henna was a man, but when you said "Miss Henna" this morning I knew. You think you're having a lot of fun kidding us, don't you? But here's one you can't fool, old top. I knew all along no woman ever wrote like that.

Must Have Been a Bond Salesman.

R. H. L.: Is there still a little bit of romance left in this great dirty city? You see, I must know, because a few days ago while crossing the street a nice shiny car's mudguard caught me very sharply in the small of my back. I bit the dust. Instead of the usual inquiry as to why I should want to mess up the road, I came to and saw the most beautiful thing in this imperfect world. He had picked me up and carried me to the sidewalk. But before he went away he asked me for my telephone number.

SNOWSHOE DISCUSSES THE OUT-DOOR GIRL!

R. H. L.: It has bin my policy not to mention the dolly sex, but for once I'll break my rule and give you the regular out-door girl.

She fishes from the uth end uv the bote, an' keeps her mug shut wen she has no particular reason for sayin' somethin'. She fishes cause she wants ter, an' she don't squeal like a stabbed pig wen she gets a bite. She sees "darn" if one gets away an' "dam" if the number runs higher. She kin turn aroun' an' say "Slide that car o' wurns down here" without shudderin'. She kin say "Heck, they ain't no fish here, gimme the oars!" She kin get her feet wet an' her nose unburnt an' still think she had a lotta fun. Does she smoke? Nope! Drink? She don't! Bobbed hair? I'll tell the cockeyed world she has! Does she git mud on her shoes? Yuh dam rite she does!

SNOWSHOE AL.

P. S. But you know wot the farmer sed wen he saw the cammel.

We Do Not Scorn the Jinks.

R. H. L.: We do believe! We do believe! Tell Helen Henna. Even our wealthiest acquaintance, the family bootlegger, picks up pins—when they're pointed towards him—all others he scorn—because they bring him good luck. Of course this doesn't affect the customers.

And They're Taking Parachutes, Too.

R. H. L.: Speaking of girls with mud on their shoes, road map of the county, and taking roller skates along, are we to believe that the girls we see tripping to the lake in the summer with life belts and inner tubes are going motor boat riding?

LONDON is unhappy because the attempt to make King George heard around the world by radio failed. Australia says it couldn't hear George at all. India listened, but heard nothing but "umph ph, umph hah, umph pah." Madagascar says all it got was a jaxx band at the Drake. Tasmania heard nothing but "Peter Caterpillar took little Sammy Fishworm by the hand and just then up came old Henry Doodlebug." Cheer up, George; when you and her gets on a horse his fall is heard around the world and without any help from radio, either.

AH, OUI, OUI!

R. H. L.: While you're talking about books, may I put in a word for one of my literary heroes? William Beebe—have you ever met him? His "Jungle Peace" and "Edge of the Jungle" made me so happy I almost cried. Has he written any more? I've hunted for others, but haven't found them. I hope he'll live a hundred years and write a hundred books. Do you like him, too?

BLACKLIST THE FIRE TRAPS FOR PROTECTION OF FIREMEN.
Chicago, April 21.—Death has claimed nine more lives in the name of public safety. The Curran hall blaze and its subsequent fire in only one more case of heroic action resulting in heroic death in the name of the public welfare. Yet these men, these nine heroes, have given their lives in vain! And, furthermore, firemen will continue to give their lives in vain if some new plan is not devised. Curran hall should have been on a list of old and almost decayed structures. Thus, when the blaze broke out it would have been unnecessary for our firemen to have risked their lives in the destruction of nine worthy lives. The buildings surrounding and the safety of the inhabitants could have been safeguarded while the old, decayed, worthless and old could have been allowed to burn to its own destruction and not the destruction of nine worthy lives.

The plan of blacklisting old, unworthy structures is not a new one. Cities have employed it for many years, and I believe that New York at the present time is using a similar plan. Firemen must be protected. In the name of these hero dead let us promise that they will be the last and that their lives have not been given wholly in vain.

IRVING PFLAUM.

NO REASON EXCEPT A DESIRE FOR AN ACCURATE LIKENESS.
Iowa City, Ia., April 22.—Your recent cartoon shows Gen. Dawes in three poses. In one he is smoking a cigar and in two, a pipe. Pictures of eminent men in the newspapers almost universally show them with a cigar or cigarette in their mouths, or between their fingers.

Whatever may be the opinion as to the desirability of the tobacco habit, it is universally admitted that it should not be acquired by boys and that it is harmful to the growing youth. Boys are imitative and portraying eminent men as smokers is an added incentive for the imitative boy to acquire the habit. We fail to discover any reason for depicting Gen. Dawes with a cigar or pipe in his mouth, and it certainly does not make an otherwise excellent cartoon.

ALL THE VOTING DIDN'T END WITH THE PRIMARY.
Chicago, April 1.—Gov. Small and his gang may think they will have easy sailing from now on, since they were victors in the primary, but while visiting my brother today, where another friend was also, I discovered that all three of us were of the same mind, viz.: That we could vote the Democratic ticket at the regular election and that Norman L. Jones would get our votes. All three of us are Republicans.

FARM LOGIC.
Bloomington, Ill., April 19.—The farmer holds in his hands a political balance of power amounting to more than 40 per cent of the total vote. If untidily he should demand that his products be taken here in the United States at a price that is fair compared with what he has to pay and be refused, he has the political power to say: "I am sorry, this is a matter of life or death to me and mine, so I am compelled to seek the cheapest markets the world affords, and more, I am no longer going to make field hands of my wife and daughter. ## THOMPSON WINS ANOTHER BOUT FROM LUNDIN

Obtains Full Control of West Park Board.

BY FRANK BUTZOW.

William Hale Thompson outgained Fred Lundin yesterday by taking the west park board away from him.

With it goes control of Gov. Small's west side patronage. The commission was completely reorganized, with Thompson's commissioners getting all the offices. They are:

PRESIDENT—John C. Krus.

VICE PRESIDENT—Jacob Galsenowich.

TREASURER—Joseph Simon.

SECRETARY—Edolph Melas.

Second Jolt for Lundin.

It was the second recent jolt the former mayor has given Lundin.
Thompson's first move to be the one and only big chief of the Small forces in Chicago was to take the "rump" judicial convention away from Lundin last Monday night at Turner hall and join in a harmony program with the regular G. O. P. behind Superior Judge Frederic R. De Young for Supreme court justice.

As a result of the west park reorganization State Representative Tom Curran, a Thompson follower, replaces Sanitary Trustee Alexander N. Todd, Lundin lieutenant, as dispenser of state jobs on the west side.

Small Won Board's Power.

When Gov. Small stepped into the west park row last summer, ousted the old board, headed by Chris Weihe, and named a new set of commissioners, it was understood that Curran and Todd would be dual dictators of patronage.
Then came the Lundin-Thompson split. Todd had supplanted Curran as west side boss, and undermined him sufficiently to line the park board up on the Lundin side. There it stood until the former mayor demanded a showdown between himself and Lundin for the political affections of Gov. Small.

TO "KNUCKLING DOWN."

ago, April 21.—The knuckling down Japanese arrogance, for the last years, has been a thorn in the of every real American. The great ore Roosevelt, whom I honor above any man, made his only grievous when he practically coerced the of California to submit to Japanese during his administration. Ever there has been a belief and a tendency in the part of Japan that we could defeat. It is refreshing to find a sensible man who is not a La Follette, a Taft or a Brookhart, that has set his mind that it is time to look for America and Americans.

When it Rains—Go Shopping Anyway

SOME women wisely make for themselves this rule: "Never let the weather govern your plans."

They pride themselves on being above the weather and its vagaries. If it rains when they had planned to go down town—they go anyway. They dress for it and then rather enjoy a little contact with Nature in her spring moods.

This makes a useful day, and a rather pleasant one, out of a day that otherwise might easily slip by and be lost to any achievement. More than that, it adds something to the feeling of self-reliance, independence and freedom to go right ahead with one's plans regardless of a few minor discomforts.

Thousands of shoppers find this Store a thoroughly delightful place to spend a rainy day.

Cold Dry Air Storage Vaults for Furs and Winter Clothing

NOW comes the season when the moths start their war on furs and winter clothing.
Why not keep one step ahead by storing these cherished garments where moths cannot reach them? Our splendid modern vaults are moth-proof, fire-proof and burglar-proof. Cold air storage also preserves the life and lustre of your furs which heat readily destroys by drying the oils out of the skins.

RUSSIA DECREES IMMIGRANT ACT BARRING YANKS

Tired of U. S. Variety of Revolutionaries.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, April 24.—Claiming that the new American immigration law is mainly directed against emigration from Russia, the Soviet government has retaliated by passing a decree forbidding immigration and re-emigration from all countries, especially America.

Discussing the new law, the Moscow Worker says: "The Soviet of work and defense, in passing the decree, says it is especially directed against emigrants from America, who come to Russia expecting to be rewarded with responsible posts for unnoteworthy revolutionary activities in America. Let these alleged revolutionaries remain in America and create responsible posts for themselves."

The decree of the Soviet of work and defense states that while special permission to enter Russia has been given a group of emigrants from America in present in Constantinople, hereafter all persons seeking to enter Russia from abroad will be refused because of the lack of employment and bad living and housing conditions in Russia.

Steamship Lines Protest.
The new American immigration law has created consternation in Russia and the Baltic states. The steamship companies who have paid premiums as high as $2,000 for preferential locations near the American consular offices are preparing to reduce their staffs, even usually amalgamating their offices. The Baltic American line, running direct from Lfau to New York, announces that after handling this year's quota of 10,000, it will go to Danzig.

Enough Jews are waiting in Riga to fill Russia's quota under the new law this year, while Poland and Roumania are admitted to have thousands more waiting to rush for Ellis Island in June. It is doubtful whether these will even embark on the ships, since many lines have established winter colonies in England, Germany, and French ports, consisting of immigrants who failed to make the quota last year.

$40,000,000 Prepaid Passages.
The new bill forces all the steamship companies to repay hundreds of thousands of prepaid passages to American relatives of would-be immigrants. The total amount of prepaid passages for Poland, Lithuania, Russia, and Latvia alone amounts to more than $40,000,000, while it is believed here if the Italian, Greek, Roumanian, Armenian and other southeast European countries were added this amount would be doubled.

According to steamship officials, the countries bordering on Russia are placed in a serious predicament by the new law. They have permitted thousands to enter, expecting the opening of the American quota. During the last winter Roumania, Poland, Lithuania and Latvia have been flooded with Jews from Russia and the governments of these countries now are faced with the problem of attempting to assimilate them or deporting them. Government officials state that deportation is probable.

All the public officials, as well as steamship agents interviewed say that while the new law is a good thing for America's future, still it is bad for Europe, since another major problem has been added to those unsolved.

Wife, 65, of Ex-Mayor of Milwaukee Wins Divorce.
Milwaukee, Wis., April 24.—Mrs. Lucy Gelsen Seidel, 65, wife of former Mayor Emil Seidel of Milwaukee, today was granted a divorce from Seidel on grounds of nonsupport. Seidel now is an employee on the farm of a brother at Fern, Wis. Mrs. Seidel accepted a $500 bond and $1 a year in lieu of alimony.

CONFIRMS ONE PART OF THEORY OF RELATIVITY

The third prediction in the general theory of relativity advanced by Einstein has been confirmed by results obtained by Dr. Charles E. St. John, noted solar physicist, in the last few months of his work on the sun at the Mount Wilson observatory at Pasadena, Cal.

Dr. St. John has found that solar spectrum lines exhibit a gravitational displacement to the degree predicted by Einstein himself.

This was made known yesterday by Miss Frances St. John of 5832 Blackstone avenue, a niece of the famous physicist, who recently received a communication from her uncle announcing the result of his labors.

Dr. St. John probably has gone farther than any one else in the world in exploring and soundings the sun's atmosphere.

One Center of Interest.
"This 'third effect' predicted by Einstein, the gravitational displacement of solar spectrum lines and its proof or disproof," said Dr. St. John, "has been the center of interest because among the mathematical physicists whose opinions carry great weight there has not been complete agreement. Einstein says the theory stands or falls according as the displacement exists or not. These latter results, which I have been able to obtain at Mount Wilson, show that it does exist in the amount predicted by him. Eddington considers the displacement of the Fraunhofer lines a necessary and fundamental condition for the acceptance of the theory, while Sir Joseph Larmor deduces that even according to relativity the displacement should be only half of that predicted by Einstein."

High Pressure Disproved.
A generally accepted theory—that of a high pressure existing in the sun's atmosphere—has been swept away by the experiments, Dr. St. John announced.

"Of course we believe a tremendous pressure must exist in the center of the sun," he said, "but up to the present we have only been able to explore its outer envelope to a depth of about 10,000 miles.

As to the value of these investigations to posterity, Dr. St. John said: "Our study of the sun is aiming towards the discovery and mastery of great sources of energy, stored up in the sun and stars, for man's use. We are using up our sources of energy in the world and we must learn to store up the sun's energy, or learn how to get energy out of matter. The world is going to be up against it some day unless we can find out how to do some of the things going on in the sun, that great unexplained engine of energy."

KILLED AT FULLMAN PLANT.
George Hawkins, 33 years old, 12030 South Union avenue, was killed yesterday while working near a hydraulic press in the plant of the Fullman Car Company in South Chicago when a water pipe in the press broke and a piece of it struck him in the head.

EMMA GOLDMAN URGES WORKERS TO DOWN SOVIETS

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
BERLIN, April 24.—Emma Goldman, deported from the United States as an anarchist, in a mass meeting of 5,000 workers in Berlin tonight attacked the Soviet government for being capitalists in workers' clothing and for restraining free speech through terrorist methods of the darkest days of the czarist regime. The purpose of the meeting was to organize workers, anarchists and revolutionaries of the world to fight capitalism and bolshevism. Berlin is designated as the headquarters of the new anarchist organization. The communists placed members of their party throughout the hall in an effort to break up the meeting. Catcalls and shouts of derision made the speaker inaudible, but Miss Goldman finally succeeded in quieting the house after hearing disturbers call her unprintable epithets.

Her plea to the crowd was for a united effort to release political prisoners freezing and starving in mines and camps in Siberia. She says the Soviets demand political amnesty in every country, but they do not practice what they preach, since 100,000 political prisoners are held in Russian jails.

After Miss Goldman's speech the house continued in an uproar for a full hour, other scheduled speakers being unable to make themselves heard.

CHICAGO WOMEN ACTIVE IN VOTERS' LEAGUE MEETING

Many Take Part in Early Committee Sessions.

BY KATE WEBBER.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 24.—(Special.)—Some 400 attracted delegates to the convention of the League of Women Voters dashed from parlor to parlor this afternoon attending the nine department and committee pre-conference sessions which were held simultaneously from 1 until 5 o'clock.

The conferences were preceded by a morning of rumors, one to the effect that the committee on international cooperation to prevent war would take action on Japanese exclusion. This proved to be unfounded, though members of the committee state that Miss Ruth Morgan of New York, the chairman, in all probability will introduce a resolution regarding the bill at the convention proper.

Whether the subject of birth control will be raised as in past years is a question to be decided.

Social Disease Control.

Dr. Rachel Yarros of Chicago spoke at the conference of the social hygiene department, taking for her theme the difficulty of procuring for women the same treatment that is accorded men in the curing of social diseases. She said this state of affairs was due to lack of coordination in the departments of health and law enforcement in providing detention for men as they do for women.

Women in politics are still in the feather duster stage, according to Miss Elizabeth Hauser of Ohio, who spoke on "Standards for Party Members."

Uniform Divorce Laws.

Miss Esther Dunshee, chairman, and Miss Catherine O'Laughlin, secretary of the committee on uniform laws concerning women, both are from Chicago. Miss Dunshee's symposium included an illuminating speech by Miss Marion Griffin, member of the Tennessee legislature.

Miss Griffin declared that "no state is surer than the morals of its citizens," and urged the passage of an amendment to the federal constitution as the remedy inasmuch as the recognition by each state of the laws of others, even if compelled, is a practical impossibility.

"The speed with which divorces may be obtained isn't in the same class with the speed of remarriage," she said. "Only a few states require even an appreciable time for cooling off. Your attention is called to the forty-nine varieties of marriage and divorce laws now in force, with their resulting confusion."

Make Marriage Attractive.

Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch of Chicago also spoke at this conference on equal property rights. She suggested the framing of new statutes to make the marriage partnership an attractive business undertaking to both partners.

Chicago women conspicuous at the various conferences were Mrs. May Wood Simons, who conducted a symposium on efficiency in government; Mrs. Alfred E. Kohn, Mrs. Kenneth F. Rich, Miss Eleanor Perkins, and Mrs. B. Frank Brown.

The convention proper will get under full steam this morning with Mrs. Maude Wood Park presiding. At the afternoon session Mrs. Noble Brandon Judah of Chicago is scheduled to speak on drawing young women into active work. At the evening session Mrs. William G. Hibbard of Winnetka, fourth regional director, will respond to the address of welcome given by Mrs. F. Louis Wade of New York.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, honorary president of the national league, declined emphatically today that she is to make the keynote speech at the Democratic national convention, as has been prophesied.

POLICE GUARD RESIDENCE OF JOHN J. SLOAN

Numerous threats against his life have been received by John J. Sloan, president of the board of local improvements, since he defied striking sewer laborers yesterday by barring members of their union from employment on city street improvement projects. Detectives were assigned last night to accompany Mr. Sloan, while others were posted to guard his home, it became known.

Admission by Peter Pesco, business agent of the sewer excavators' union, that laborers on paving projects at Mansfield and North avenues and Mason and North avenues walked out at the request of Peter Shaughnessy, president of the bricklayers' union, caused Mr. Sloan to order a lockout against laborers on all city work. This is the basis of the feud.

KEYNOTERS OPEN SENATE DEBATE ON TAX PROGRAM

Smoot Makes Strong Plea for Mellon Plan.

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Washington, D. C., April 24.—(Special.)—Debate on the tax bill started in the senate today with keynote speeches by spokesmen for the majority and minority members of the finance committee. Senator Smoot (Rep., Utah), chairman, urged the approval of the Mellon surtax as contained in the bill, declaring that the reduction of the present high rates to a maximum of 25 per cent will prove a big stimulus to business.

Senator Smoot, besides discussing the Mellon normal and surtax rates, dealt with the earned income provision, explained the increase in the tax on corporation earnings, and defended the reduction in estate tax rates below those of the house bill and the elimination of the gift tax.

Jones Favors Simmons Plan.
Senator Jones (Dem., N. M.), who presented the minority report from the finance committee, advocated the Simmons surtax rates with a maximum of 40 per cent and challenged the contention of Secretary Mellon that a further reduction below this point is necessary.

Senate leaders expressed the belief that the bill can be passed within two weeks. If this is done there will be no question about a final adjournment of congress early in June.

Senator Norris (Rep., Neb.), one of the radical group leaders, introduced an amendment to provide for complete publicity of tax returns. The Democrats advocate publicity of proceedings in contested tax cases but do not favor making all tax returns open to public inspection.

Big Surpluses Shown.
Senator Smoot said the bill as reported to the senate provides the largest amount of tax reduction which is possible. Senator Smoot analyzed the situation with respect to the public debt and quoted treasury figures showing that the surplus for the calendar year 1923 was $237,000,000 and that the estimated surplus for the fiscal year 1924 is $329,000,000, and for 1925 it is $395,000,000.

"The committee concluded that the tax reduction bill should be based upon the estimated surplus contained in the budget message of the President, and the committee provision is made for the fullest tax reduction justifiable," said Senator Smoot. "The table of estimated receipts and estimated expenditures indicates a 1925 deficit of $50,989,444. It is the belief of the committee and the government actuary, however, that the stimulus given to business by a surtax revision and an economically sound income tax will so increase the revenue yield of the income taxes as to wipe out this apparent deficit."

Senator Smoot replied to the contention of the minority members of the finance committee that there is a joker in the earned income section under which, although the 25 per cent reduction in taxes on earned income is limited to $10,000, the actual reduction varies according to the income of the taxpayer.

WILL ADDRESS EXECUTIVES' CLUB.
Giles Starr Ross, head of the Business Senior club of Cleveland, O., will address the Executive club at luncheon today at the Hotel Sherman.

MACDONALD SEES U. S. AND BRITAIN PEACE WELDERS

Publishers Act to Help
Second Class Mail.

New York, April 24.—The American press is an important instrument in the development of mutual understanding between the American and British peoples, and it has fulfilled this mission with fairness, friendliness, and thoroughness, Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain might tell the American Newspaper Publishers' association through Sir E. E. Thomson, British ambassador, who addressed the annual dinner.

"The Press" His "Colleagues." The head of the British state, in a message to the association incorporated in Sir E. E. Thomson's address, declared he liked to feel that in saluting the American press he was saluting a powerful colleague in the work of maintaining and strengthening a real understanding between the two peoples.

"The more I study the present plight of Europe," said the prime minister's message, "the more I feel that in the long run the moral and material future of humanity must depend to no small extent upon a cordial friendship and a generosity of sentiment between our two nations."

Asserting that official relations never better than they were now, needed the sanction of popular understanding to be enduring. Mr. MacDonald declared its development was the province of the press.

The individuals who constitute the democracies of the English speaking countries must learn to understand each other, as in private life real friends understand each other—laughing sometimes at each other, sometimes holding different views, but always cordial and feeling the unifying influence of good fellowship—if they are ever to see their ideals adequately translated into practice in international affairs," the message continued.

Ambassador Sees, a New Patriotism.

A new era was dawning, Sir E. E. Thomson asserted, of international policy less selfish, less violent, more considerate of the feelings and interests of others, more in accordance with Christian precepts, than the old policy. A new patriotism which, while exalting the love of country, allowed one to see the good in others and appreciate the points of view of others, also was superseding the old patriotism, which often fostered international dislikes, he said.

United States Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania lauded politicians for their methods of obtaining publicity and keeping themselves and their schemes in the public mind.

"Among us politicians," he said, "the quick and the trickster still flourish and the printed word is their most powerful weapon. Would that you (the publishers) could adopt some schedule rates for such political advertising and could decline to publish the appeal of the liar and charlatan. Close your columns to the claptrap and buncombe of the politicians. Scorn our words when you know that we are uttering falsehoods just as you scorn the dishonest advertiser."

Paraded as News.

These utterances, he went on, were all the more dangerous because they "paraded as news and not frankly as the advertisements they really are," adding that "the only fee we politicians pay for our advertising is that we give it some appearance of news value; that it be startling enough to catch the average reader's attention."

The fundamentals of government, he said, or "sanity, thrift, and economy," have no "news value," adding: "But it takes the police to hold back the crowds who wish to see the bobbed hair bandit pass or the criminal who is too insane for the jail and not insane enough for the asylum. And so it is with the political advertiser. If he preached sanity, he lacks 'news value,' and if he defies common sense and preaches the impossible, the printing press is his willing slave."

Thomson Elected President.

S. E. Thomson of this Chicago Tribune was elected president of the Publishers' association at the business session. Other officers elected were: Vice president, John Stewart Bryan of the Richmond (Va.) News-Leader; secretary, George M. Rogers of the Cleveland Plain Dealer; treasurer, Howard Davis of the New York Herald-Tribune.

The convention adopted a resolution declaring that the present postal rates for the transmission of second class mail were "burdensome and oppressive."

"The so-called zone postal rates of the eleven war revenue measures of 1917," the resolution said, "have been maintained by congress on the war basis, and all other war revenue measures have been repealed or modified."

"This convention indorses the program outlined in the report of its committee on second class postage. This convention emphatically condemns the recommendation of the postmaster general dated April 14, 1923, suggesting that further burdens be imposed on second class mail."

REDS AND BRITISH O. K. AGENDA FOR LONDON PARLEY

BY JOHN STEELE

(Copyright, 1924, By The Chicago Tribune.)

LONDON, April 24.—The Anglo-Russian conference met again today in the foreign office after the Easter holiday. So far as public statements were made, all that was done was to approve the agenda, which divides the conference into four committees, each of which will work separately, reporting to the full conference from time to time.

The British are satisfied that, so far as the soviet delegates in London are concerned, a genuine effort is being made to secure a settlement of the outstanding matters between Russia and England. London, however, is not so sure of some of the bolshevik chiefs in Russia, who still are talking in terms of the Red revolution of two or three years ago. There seems to be a struggle between two parties, one of which still wants the old revolutionary platform, while the other desires to set Russia's house in order and resume relations with civilized nations.

From other sources it is learned that some real work has been accomplished. The Russians have abandoned their demand that the treaty of Versailles and the question of Bessarabia be discussed, and these two questions now have been definitely ruled out of the conference.

Agree on Property Action.

They have also reported favorably to Moscow on Prime Minister MacDonald's suggestion that, instead of discussing in the conference the claims of foreign owners of property expropriated by the bolsheviks, the soviet government should call a meeting of representatives of all foreign owners and try to arrive at a settlement direct with them. This would prevent complaints that one nation was more favored than another.

Mr. MacDonald has also advised that the oil question be dealt with direct with all parties interested. The Standard Oil and other American concerns, the Royal Dutch, the Anglo-Persian, and many other oil companies all have claims on Russia, and Mr. MacDonald's advice is that all act together to obtain a settlement satisfactory to all. This also was agreed to by the Russian delegates subject to approval.

Russians See the Lights.

The Russian delegates enjoyed the Easter holiday sightseeing in London. They attended the opening of the British Empire exposition at Wembley, and were much impressed by the military display there. They assert that the only troops in the world equal to the British guards are the Red guards.

BOYS CAUGHT IN ROBBERY SHOOT AT POLICEMAN

Policeman Ralph Burke of the Washington station risked his life and almost lost it last night in overtaking and arresting two 16 year old boys armed with revolvers, who were attempting to steal an automobile. Burke watched the boys for nearly fifteen minutes as they were jimmied the door of a garage in the rear of 517 South Michigan avenue. As they opened the door he rushed upon them. Both boys drew guns. One fired, the bullet grazing the officer's left hand. Despite his injury he arrested the boys, who gave their names as Edward Fawcett, 4932 Wells street, and Emil Gershman, 4932 Wells street.

Franklin Park Police Nab Taxicab Robbers in the Act

Chief of Police Edward Krots and Sgt. Phillip Schultz of Franklin Park caught three men in the act of robbing a taxicab driver last night and arrested them. They are August Vogel, 1806 Warren avenue; Frank Ryan, 1924 West Monroe street; and Alvin Hoffman, 146 North Paulina street. They hired the taxicab of Peter Legus, 2439 West Superior street, to drive to Franklin Park. At Mannheim road and Grand avenue the three presented guns and took $18 from Vogel. Just then Krots and Schultz happened along.

For Sagging or Hanging Cheeks and Skin

Flabbiness of cheeks, chin or neck was considered very difficult to correct until the discovery of what has proved to be a veritable wonder-worker for such conditions. The formula is so simple and harmless any woman can easily make and apply it. It is the only more remarkable in that its beneficial effects are apparent even after the very first application, both as to appearance and the feeling of comfort.

The formula is: One ounce powdered Savitite, dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel. Use daily as a wash lotion. The solution tends to contract and solidify the loosened, baggy tissue, smooths out the folds, creases and wrinkles, besides having a refining influence on skin of coarse texture and larger pores. As witch hazel and Savitite can be had at any drug store, any one can try this successful recipe.

FIRPO BLASTS 'RETIREMENT' BY DEFI TO ROMERO

New York, April 24.—The first weakening of the chains of retirement which Luis Angel Firpo has bound himself was seen today by ring followers when the Argentine suddenly hurled a challenge at Quintin Romero, his Chilean rival and claimant of the South American title, for a match in the United States.

Firpo, cable dispatches from Buenos Aires said, attached the condition that Romero must forego all other matches in the meantime, but this promptly was rejected by Tex Rickard, who has signed the Chilean for his American debut in a twelve round bout with Floyd Johnson at Madison Square garden May 3.

Might Meet Luis Angel Next.
The Romero-Johnson match will go through, the promoter declared, but added that he stood ready to pit Firpo against the Chilean if the latter is victorious over Johnson.

Should this be acceptable to Firpo, Rickard asserted the logical arrangement would be to match the Firpo-Romero victory with Harry Wills, to determine an opponent for Jack Dempsey in a title bout next September.

"He's Weakening," Says Tex.
Rickard professed to view Firpo's latest announcement as proof that the Argentine's determination to stay in the ring is weakening as he sees the battle lines forming here for the 1924 heavyweight title bout.

According to cable advices, Firpo was prompted to challenge Romero as a result of intimations that he feared his Chilean rival. He was reported to have voiced little concern over prospects of matches with Wills and Dempsey.

The bout, scheduled for ten rounds, was stopped in the sixth round, and the decision was given to Norfolk.

The boxing commissioners said that the two men had broken the commission's rules and the regulations made by Referee Jack Sheehan before the bout started.

SIKI CABLES LEVY FROM CUBAN JAIL

Havana, Cuba, April 24.—(Special.)—Siki appeared in the correctional court today and was fined $21 on the complaint of a taxi driver, who said the Senegalese had run up a bill which he was unable to pay.

With jail starting him in the back, Siki managed to borrow the money from a local fight promoter who earlier in the day cabled Bob Levy, Siki's manager, in New York, that the Senegalese was willing to return to the United States as soon as Levy provided the wherewithal to square accounts here and pay for a ticket.

Two weeks ago when Levy sued for home Siki, informed him that he was having too good a time in Havana to go back to the United States.

LINKS BUILDERS HEAR OF NEW WEED KILLER

BY JOE DAVIS.
Prospects of the discovery of a liquid that will kill weeds and of another that may check "brown patch" were among the good bits of news distributed at the meeting of the green section of the Chicago District Golf association held at the Great Northern hotel yesterday.

The meeting presided over by President Robert A. Gardner attracted over eighty men interested in golf course construction, many of them being members of the Illinois Professional Golfers association.

Leonard Macomber suggested that greenkeepers write to the department of agriculture at Washington for details on a liquid the agricultural doctors have been experimenting with.

"Brown Patch" Medicine.
It is used after the ground has been plowed up, to kill the weeds. The "brown patch" medicine, is being produced by the Dupont company.

Prof. Lyman W. Carrier, formerly of Washington, D. C., but now located at South Bend, spoke on the new vegetative system of planting and Prof. W. P. Miller of Ohio State university gave an interesting talk on modern methods of draining as applied to golf courses. Prof. C. P. Halligan of Michigan Agricultural college enlightened his hearers on landscape problems.

At Epiphany in Chicago.
Al R. Epiphany, last year with the Englewood club of Seattle, has joined the local colony of professionals although not yet associated with a club. He played on the coast with Eugene Stangen, Joe Kirkwood and Walter Hagen, who advised him to come east to one of the golfing centers. He followed their advice and will compete in the national open championship and other open tournaments. He is a native of San Francisco and started playing as a caddy at Del Monte. He was open champion of Washington in 1922 and 1923.

The match between Chick Evans and Jack Hutchinson at the Palm Hills forest preserve course on Sunday afternoon will be free to the public. Play will start at 2:30.

A party of Chicago bankers will leave over the Chicago and Eastern Illinois road this morning to attend the midwinter meeting of the American Bankers' association at Atlanta, Ga. They will stop at Birmingham, Ala., for a round of golf and also take part in a tournament at Augusta.

The new Northwestern course located on the forest preserve property adjoining the Palm Hills club will be opened informally on April 27, temporary greens being used. The opening will be a "two day" event, for which there will be twenty-four prizes for men and twelve for women. This will start May 24, when Alexander H. Bevell, Albert R. Gates, Commissioner F. W. Penfield, and J. P. Packard will compete in a four ball match.

At Epiphany, the Pacific coast professional, playing his first rounds of the Glen View course, scored 73 in the morning and 69 in the afternoon, the course being on the slow side. He was playing with T. E. Cunningham, Harry B. Williams, and James R. Baker.

Butterfield Country club will open its course and clubhouse tomorrow. An eighteen hole event will be followed by a dinner and star party.

The original Hillside course at Butterfield and Wolf road will open tomorrow.

The Green Valley club will open tomorrow and start an Olympic Fund handicap, for which the entry fee will be $5. The club will donate a high grade ball to each contestant and give prizes for low grade and put.

KIECKHEFER CLINGS TO 5TH CUE LEAGUE NOTCH BY SHARING WITH HEAL

TWO harrowing finishes, in one of which he was a loser, Angle Kieckhefer an even break against Hugh Heal of Toledo in their postponed series in the National Three Cushion league at Kieckhefer's yesterday. This outcome enabled Angle to retain fifth place in the race, a little ahead of Copeline of Cleveland.

Heal won the afternoon session, 50 to 49, in 62 innings, and Angle the night game, 50 to 47, in 61 innings.

In the afternoon Angle led 48 to 39 in 45 innings, and then made a single in fifth frame. Heal crept along and went out with runs of 3 and 1. His high run was 4. Angle getting a 7.

At night Angle led 46 to 40 in 51 innings, and then made a single in a row. Five ephers followed, however, and Heal, with counts of 2, 6, 1, 1, and 2, made a single finish. Angle had a run of 6. Angle's next games here will be on Monday against Jack Layton.

FARM & GARDEN
HOW TO HANDLE SCALY SHRUBS AND TREES IN EARLY SUMMER.

HOME owners are becoming greatly concerned about the damage that is likely to be done this season to the shrubs and trees by the oyster shell scale. This pest does great damage to both ornamental shrubs and trees, particularly ash, lilac, and cornus, or dogwood, entomologists claim.

Many have no doubt sprayed their trees and shrubs during the winter and think that this is sufficient protection, but Purdue station specialists say that since this particular scale pest passes the winter in the egg stage beneath the scale covering it is not thoroughly controlled by dormant sprays.

These entomologists explain that the eggs of the oyster shell scale will not hatch until the latter part of May or the first of June and consequently they will do no further injury until after the young hatch and begin to feed. Spraying is recommended for that season, preferably between a week and ten days after the first tiny white speck-like young hatch. Use a lubricating emulsion or fish oil soap and nicotine sulphate spray.

If the shrubs seem to be weakened by the scales, the experts advise the use of manure or nitrate of soda. Nitrate must be scattered thinly on the ground, covering the area out to the tips of the branches with from one to four pounds to each bush or tree, depending on the size.

PADDOCK ARRIVES AT DRAKE AS ONE OF 2,000 STARS

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Des Moines, Ia., April 24.—[Special.]

With over 185 universities, colleges, high and grade schools represented by over 2,000 athletes, the annual relay games and individual events of Drake university will be held in the natural stadium here tomorrow and Saturday.

The event has attracted the cream of middle western athletes, who are anxious to match their skill in what may be termed the first real test of the outdoor season. Since the close of the indoor season, the athletes have been pointed for this series of games, which is recognized as one of the leading track and field classics of the country.

Barometer of Olympic Chances.

With every performance either a handicap or an aid to their chances of making the American Olympic team this summer, the athletes will bend every effort to gain recognition from the committee which will make final selection of the men to go to France.

Although the final Olympic tests are slated for Boston on June 13 and 14, athletes who register excellent and consistent performances in every meet of national and sectional importance will be looked upon with favor, despite the results of the tests in the Harvard stadium.

Just how many trials will be held tomorrow is not known. The athletes will report for every individual event, and strategies will determine the feasibility of holding tests so that the fields may be narrowed to a sufficient number to insure completion of the games before dark on Saturday. The major university and college relays will be held on Saturday, but the "deadwood" in a number of events will be eliminated tomorrow.

Parade on the Scene.

Charles Paddock of California, recognized as the world's fastest sprinter, who will give exhibitions tomorrow and Saturday, is here and feeling fit. He will run in a handicap 100 yard dash tomorrow, and on Saturday he will run 125 yards. In both events contestants will be given liberal allowances. Weather conditions will determine in a large measure what races will be run. The above order may be reversed at starting time tomorrow.

Mike Butler, former physical director and track coach at the Chicago A. A., is here with his Oregon Aggies team, which won the four mile university relay at the Kansas races last week. With Ray Dodge, who has been running all winter for the Illinois A. C. of Chicago, in the anchor position, Butler has high hopes of his team repeating on Saturday.

Illinois Arrives from Coast.

Illinois, which defeated California in a dual set of games at Berkeley, Cal., last Saturday, also is here. Coach Harry Gill will start a team in the four mile relay and possibly in the one mile. His sprint relay squads have been weakened by the loss of Bob Brown, who is temporarily out of competition with a pulled tendon.

Numbers of other teams have arrived, but all are expected in the city tomorrow morning. In fact, the Missouri team is the most of the middle west college athletic world, and many notables will be on hand.

Fielding H. Yost, director of athletics at Michigan, will be active referee, and John A. Griffith, commissioner of athletics in the western conference, will be official starter. Other men well known in university and college track and field circles will act in other official capacities.

JOLIET CLUB TO HOLD MARATHON

The Irving A. C. of Joliet will conduct a ten mile modified marathon run and a five mile novice race on June 1.

Both events are open to athletes registered with the A. A. U., and entry blanks can be obtained from Al Gottlieb, 1900 East Washington street, Joliet. In the ten mile, the first seven runners to finish will be given prizes and the first seven in the novice will be given suitable awards.

ELGIN COLLEGE DIRECTOR TO QUIT

Elgin, Ill., April 24.—[Special.]—Edwin Link, for the last three years athletic director at the Elgin Junior college and academy, today announced his resignation, to become effective at the close of the Northern Illinois Junior college conference baseball season.

De Pauw and Purdue Tie in Dual Tennis Event

Lafayette, Ind., April 24.—[Special.]—Purdue and De Pauw tied in a tennis meet here this afternoon, 3 to 3.

Seymour and Sowers won singles matches for the Bollermakers, while Moll and Misk were victors for the Methodists in the doubles, and Nesbitt and Pinkerman won their doubles match for the Purdue team.

KANKAKEE OPENS SUNDAY.

Kankakee, Ill., April 25.—[Special.]—The Kankakee Legion baseball team will open their season here next Sunday, with St. Victor of Northmanna furnishing the opposition. Other contestants booked include Champaign, Le Roy, Jimmy Arner's All Stars, Lowell, Ind., and the Chicago Elks.

MOON MULLINS—NO, SIR, THEY CAN'T GYP MOON

In the Wake of the News

CHICAGO TENNIS.

CHICAGO has not kept pace with the rest of the country during the last decade in the development of star tennis players. Only within the last year or so have youthful "prospects" arisen seemingly capable of taking the place of fading veterans.

Perhaps lack of proper facilities and lack of competition have been, in part, contributing causes. Expansion of the Chicago Tennis club, including a commodious clubhouse with two indoor courts and many more outdoor courts, therefore is welcomed by tennis followers.

South Side Tennis club has been active in promoting net events and bidding for big tournaments. Skokie, while more essentially a golf club, with no large tennis personnel, has contributed in a constructive way by its willingness to bear the expense of tournaments to which national stars were invited. With the Chicago club occupying the field it deserves, there should be an improvement in the local situation.

We do not mean that tennis has slumped in the number of spectators who were never great—but for some reason stars failed to emerge from the heap. Frequent tournaments help to bring out stars, if any latent talent exists.

The Wake hopes to see many net tournaments develop young players to stand with George Lott—and several other rising youngsters still a notch or more behind Lott in racket prowess.

4,000 TO COMPETE IN PENN RELAYS TODAY

Philadelphia, Pa., April 24.—Competition of the sharpest character that may shatter records was expected by the army of athletes who were arriving tonight for the thirtieth annual relay carnival of the University of Pennsylvania tomorrow and Saturday.

Ideal weather conditions today brought scores, who were already here to Franklin field for final workouts. Among them were representatives of Cambridge university, England; the University of Edinburgh Scotland, and the Hamilton Collegiate institute and Hamilton Technical High school of Canada.

Measured by numbers of entries, the carnival this year is the greatest in its long history. More than 4,000 athletes will compete.

Pentathlon Today.

With the pentathlon or all around college championship, and two international races on tomorrow's program, the opening day promises unusual interest.

Even with Capt. Bristowe out of competition because of an attack of rheumatism, the Cambridge sprint medley combination is considered faster than the Oxford quartet, which won the event last year.

State college, with Conway and Torrence for the short relays; Hellfrich for the quarter mile, and Enck for the half; Occidental college of Los Angeles, represented by Argue, Buckman, Spangler and Powers, and Harvard, Yale, Navy, Princeton, Columbia and Holy Cross, were looked upon by rival followers as America's strongest combinations.

The two mile race has attracted one of the greatest fields for distance runners ever entered for competition in this country. It includes both of John Hopkins, intercollegiate two mile champion; Doherty of Tufts, New England cross-country champion; McGinley of Bates, New England two mile title holder; Phelps, University of Iowa, western conference cross-country champion; Brown of Minnesota, indoor western conference two mile champion, and Moore of Columbia, national junior two mile champion.

Frida in Pentathlon.

Charley West, the great negro athlete of Washington and Jefferson college, will defend his title in the pentathlon. Seeking to wrest the honors from him will be Frida, University of Chicago; Johnson, Pittsburgh; Snyder, Ohio State; Plansky, Georgetown, and Newton of Florida. All are aspirants for the American Olympic team.

Another feature of the first day's program is the distance medley relay, the entries including teams from Harvard, Yale, Penn State college, Ohio State, Holy Cross, Missouri, Navy and the University of Pennsylvania.

HALL ILLINOIS NORMAL PILOT.

Bloomington, Ill., April 24.—[Special.]—At a meeting of the squad today William Hall of Nacadoches, Tex., was unanimously chosen captain of the 1924 Illinois State Normal baseball team. The Teachers open their season at Charleston tomorrow.

Woods and Waters

BY BOB BECKER

WHEN THE BIG TREES GO.

FISHING or camping trip or a canoe cruise would be only half a pleasure jaunt if there were no trees in the country visited. We never realized this so keenly until last summer when we traveled through Wisconsin, Minnesota and Canada. The cutover and burned over areas in Minnesota and Wisconsin were sometimes nothing less than ghastly—mile after mile of barren, forbidding country denuded first by the logger and then mopped up by fire. When we came to a forest untouched by the ax or the ravages of a fire, where trees rose tall and straight into the air we felt like shouting with joy. After all there are few things in Nature's scheme that are more beautiful than a tree, especially a majestic pine, hemlock, or oak, and the way this country of ours is cutting and burning them (through forest fires) is a tragedy.

Last fall we talked with Bill Connor, who is in charge of a big lumber mill at Laona, Wis., and in other ways greatly interested in large tracts of merchantable timber in northeast Wisconsin. The subject of our conversation was timber cutting, forest fires, and reforestation. He said that with the poor protection given lumbering interests by the state no trees could be left as seedlings, under present conditions, for fire was sure to come along and clean up everything. Wisconsin is planning to spend more money for fire protection land reforestation.

It is a sad drop from virgin forest to a "mongrel" forest, which is about all we have left in our north central states, as after the logging comes a jungle of small trees that can only be described as a "mongrel" growth. If this country of ours doesn't wake up pretty soon and start planting and do less cutting sections with "big trees" will soon be a thing of the past.

PURPLE RUNNERS ARE EN ROUTE TO DRAKE RELAYS

Members of Northwestern university's crack one and two mile relay teams enroute for the Drake relays last night. Five other track and field athletes left with Coach Frank Hill.

The two mile team—Capt. H. K. Kahn, Bill Martin, Don Calhoun, and Ralph Loveland—and the one mile team composed of the first three named and Red Cole took a first and third at the Kansas races last week. Royal Boucher, pole vaulter, Paul Beard, and Bill Campbell, high jumpers, and Magnuson and Davis, weight men, are the other Purple huskies to make the trip.

COOLIDGE TRIES TO SUGARCOAT
PILL FOR JAPAN
Wants to Bar 'Em
but Not Peeve 'Em
BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
Washington, D. C., April 25.—(U. P.)—President Coolidge, it was stated officially at the White House today, is endeavoring to effect a compromise on the question of restriction of Japanese immigration which will not be considered an affront to Japan.
The undertaking to modify the exclusion provision, which both houses by overwhelming votes incorporated in the immigration restriction bill, one of such difficulty that no progress has been made in the direction of carrying out the President's desire. He has conferred with Secretary Hughes and Senator Colt (Rep., R., chairman of the senate committee on immigration).
No Compromise in Sight.
Both of these are strongly opposed to the abrogation of the gentlemen's agreement with Japan and to the exclusion of all Japanese immigrants from the United States. These conferences have failed to produce a compromise which either house would consider seriously.
One proposal is that the exclusion clause shall be made inapplicable to a nation which voluntarily prevents the emigration of its subjects from the United States. Then the gentlemen's agreement would be modified by a new understanding, and the terms of which Japan would be required to pass to Japan to come to the United States for any purpose but that of travel and study. Japan is understood to be willing to do this to the extent of narrowing voluntarily the classes of Japanese entitled to admission to this country under the treaty of 1911.
Hate Name of Asiatics.
The object of the Japanese is to avoid, at whatever sacrifice is necessary, what they regard as the humiliation of being barred by statute from the United States like other Asiatics.
House and senate leaders expressed surprise tonight at the information emanating from the White House. They were inclined to doubt that the President would make a serious effort to procure a change in the exclusion clause of the bill, and they could not comprehend any feasible compromise inasmuch as there is virtually no difference between the senate and house opinion clauses, the conference committee is without power under the rules to recommend the sort of modification the President desires. The conference committee met today, but devoted its session to provisions of which the two houses differ.
Might "Exploit" a Veto.
The understanding is that the President will endeavor to procure a revision of the exclusion clause before the bill is sent to the White House. If that move should fail he would consider the advisability of vetoing the measure in a message outlining the sort of compromise he advocates, with a view to the repassage of the bill with modification.
Japan is pulling every possible wire in this country to avert the enactment of the exclusion clause into law. Commercial organizations devoted to foreign trade and the officers of corporations having large business interests in Japan are bringing pressure to bear on senators and congressmen to induce a reconsideration of the measure.
The Federal Council of Churches is also actively fighting the exclusion proposal. This body is urging congress to add to the bill a section outlining the state department to confer with Tokio to devise some method of bringing about exclusion based on mutual consideration and good will.
Prefers to Procrastinate.
Meantime the council asks that instead of the exclusion paragraph being put into effect immediately the bill becomes a law, as required at present, President Coolidge be authorized to put it into operation on July 1, or some other date, in case some satisfactory arrangement has not been made.
"This will allow time to adjust the situation diplomatically," says the council. "Church leaders believe the bill not only annuls the gentlemen's agreement but does it in a peculiarly offensive way."
Everything This Motorist
Did Was Wrong: Fined $15
One hand was on the steering wheel, the other was around a young woman, and the automobile was on the wrong side of the road when John Jacher of 1015 West 19th street was arrested for driving while incapacitated. The drunken test him $15 yesterday in Oak Park police court.
